FEATURED GIRL CRUSH

Corben

When Garth Brooks said "move to Nashville," Corben said, "say less, G." She packed her bags and made the move from Florida, and is finding her way into the cowrites, connections, and friendships that are establishing her in her relatively new country music career. She tells us all about in this week's episode of the Girl Crush Country vodcast. Watch it here.

Ella Did The Damn Thing

Ella Langley has officially broken the all-time Billboard Hot 100 record with "Choosin' Texas." She's spent her 23rd week at #1 on the chart, beating out Mariah Carey's 22-week record for "All I Want For Christmas Is You," which she's held since 2019. And that's not even the last you'll hear from Ella -- including in this issue! Read on...

Winner Winner Girl Crush Style

It's award season, and the girl crush winners list is already HUGE. Let's break it down:

Josie Music Awards: Our featured Girl Crush guests Becca Bowen, Bella Lam, and Shelly Fairchild were all winners last Sunday (9/20). Becca took home Duo/Collaboration Music Video of the Year for "Sometimes I Do," featuring Jake Hoot. Bella nabbed Female Country Song of the Year (Div E) for "Take It Out On My Guitar." And Shelly Fairchild was named Fan's Choice Female. There were so many other phenomenal female country artists and songwriters who won, we don't have space to name them all, but you can see the full winners list here.

Nashville Songwriter Awards: It was the NSAI's ninth annual event last Tuesday (9/22), and Ella Langley, Miranda Lambert, and Lainey Wilson were among the winners. Ella and Miranda and their cowriters won Song of the Year for "Choosin' Texas." Ella also had two wins in the "10 Songs I Wish I'd Written" awards -- "Be Her" and "Weren't For the Wind." Lainey was on that list too, with her cowriters, for "Somewhere Over Laredo."

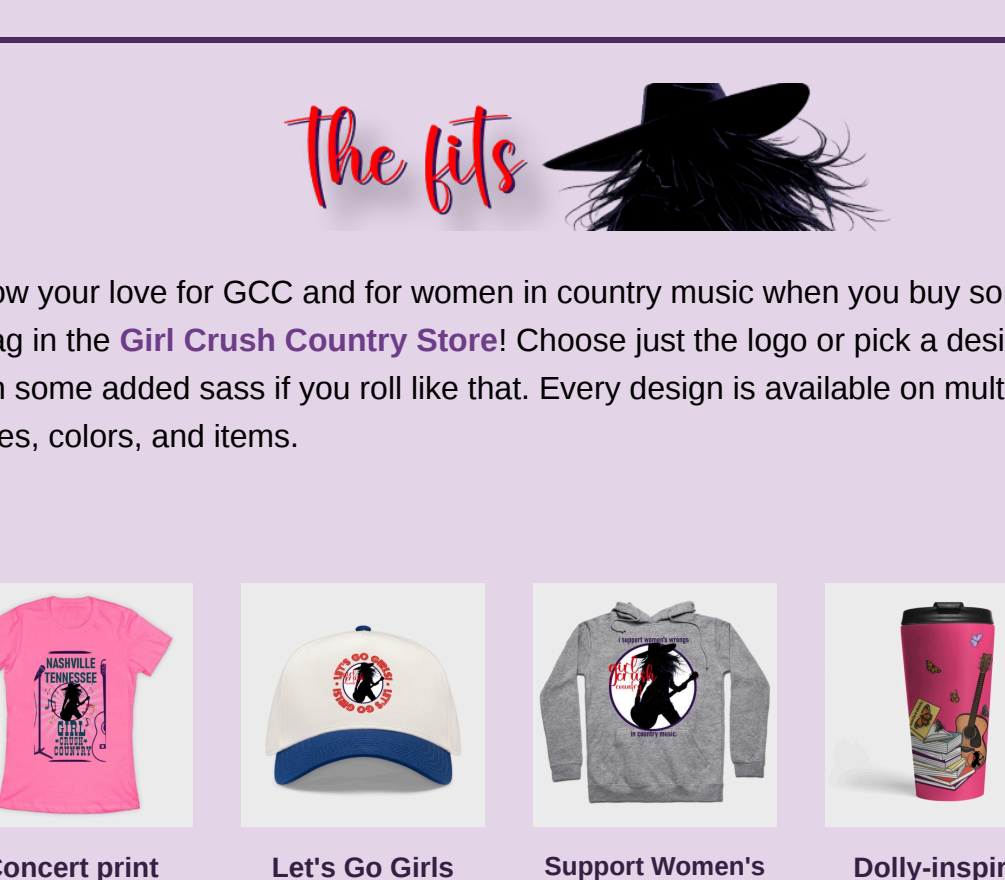

CCMA Awards: Much like we often see with the American version, the Canadian CMA awards were light on female winners, but we're excited for Meghan Patrick, who took the Female Artist of the Year win, and Tenille Townes, who won Musical Collaboration of the Year with Nate Haller.

Stella Lefty Does It Right(y)

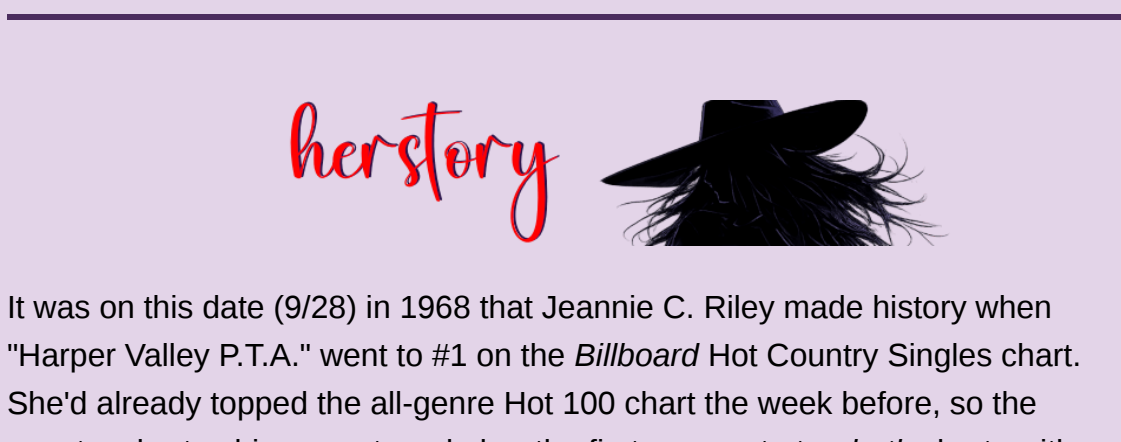

Stella Lefty just got her first #1 at country radio with her song "Boston," topping both the Country Aircheck/Mediabase and Billboard country airplay charts. She did it in 22 weeks, which is the fastest debut song to hit the top by a woman since Gretchen Wilson did it with "Redneck Woman" in 2004 on Billboard and Carrie Underwood did it with "Jesus, Take the Wheel" in 2006 on Mediabase. It's also the fifth fastest chart topper by any solo country artist in Mediabase history.

She'll Grace The Opry Stage

Rising country singer-songwriter Grace Tyler got a big surprise last weekend (9/19) at the Red, White, and Brew Festival in Albany, NY, when she finished her performance and Lee Brice invited her to make her Grand Ole Opry debut. "I'm beyond grateful, humbled, and honored to get to step into a place that means so much to country music and to me," she says. It will happen in early 2027, with the exact date to be announced.

It was on this date (9/28) in 1968 that Jeannie C. Riley made history when "Harper Valley P.T.A." went to #1 on the Billboard Hot Country Singles chart. She'd already topped the all-genre Hot 100 chart the week before, so the country chart achievement made her the first woman to top both charts with the same song.
